Manufacture
& Maintenance

Remember, your good jewellery no matter how well made, if it consists of gold it will wear.

To prolong the life of your jewellery do not wear when you are:

- Bathing
- Going to bed
- Doing housework

Your jewellery is the last thing you put on, so get into the habit of making it the first thing you take off when you arrive home.

If you own a Chamilia, Lovelinks or any other bead brand bracelet or necklace, do not wear into the water or clean with a liquid as the murano beads will discolour.

For only $16.95 you can purchase a cleaning cloth to shine up your silver and gold jewellery, and bead pieces.

Cheers

Melissa

Ideas for Fathers Day

“The Farmer Lost His WATCH”

Fathers Day gift a problem? ——— Adina Watches are having the most fantastic promotion which will be advertised on television at the end of August in “The Farmer Lost His Watch” promotion.

They have the 100m Countrymaster gents watch in various coloured dials for only $99.00 (NORMALLY $159.50) — Great looking durable watches that can be worn swimming etc.

This is exceptional value and all watches carry a TWO year guarantee. A great working mans watch. Visit them on the web at www.adinawatches.com

Weather Stations and Tide Clocks

Weather Stations are made from a selection of Thermometers, Barometers, Hygrometers and clocks and make a wonderful gift for Dad. We have a large range in store with a wide variety in colours, woods and shapes.

Barometers measure the atmospheric pressure in hectopascals.

Hygrometers measure the relative humidity of the air.

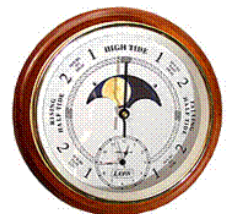

The observation of the changes in atmospheric pressure and relative humidity allows you to weather forecast.

Tide Time and Moon Clocks

Tide-Time-Moon clocks show both the current tide and the current phase of the moon, as well as the time.

Tide Clocks and tide predictor are a beautiful home ware accessory or nautical gift, and the perfect Fathers Day gift for your mariner, fisherman or surfer

Coloured Diamonds —

Diamonds have been treasured as gemstones since their use as religious icons in ancient India and usage in engraving tools also dates to early human history.

Diamonds occur in a restricted variety of colours — steel gray, white, blue, yellow, orange, red, green, pink to purple, brown, and black.

Black diamonds have been mined for many years but have not been used commercially until recently. Chocolate diamonds, otherwise known as cognac and champagne diamonds, feature strongly at the European jewellery fairs. The yellow and brown colours are usually created by minute quantities of nitrogen atoms dispersed throughout the diamond crystal affecting the light absorption. Black is created by numerous dark inclusions in the diamond crystal that give the gems their dark appearance.

It is an emerging trend in European designs to use the black diamonds and chocolate diamonds because of the dazzling contrast with white diamonds as the rich colours enhance the character and individuality of each piece. They are natural and Australia is renowned for high quality cognacs and champagne diamonds

Smoky Quartz – The incredible variety in the quartz family includes smoky quartz, amethyst, citrine, ametrine, rose quartz, onyx, agates and more. Quartz is very versatile and one of the most popular gems on the earth. Smoky Quartz is said to alleviate stress and transform fear, anger and other negative emotions into positive energies, thus having a comforting and calming effect.

The characteristic color of smoky quartz occurs in nature when rock crystal quartz is exposed to natural radiation from radioactive elements or adjacent radioactive rocks over long periods of time.
